

Institutional Legacies of War

How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational Justice

Abraham Kuol Nyuon<sup>1,2,3</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security

<sup>2</sup> Principal, Graduate College, University of Juba

<sup>3</sup> SUSI Scholar on U.S. Foreign Policy

Correspondence: nyuonabraham@gmail.com

Published: 12 July 2025 Received: 13 April 2025

Accepted: 19 June 2025 DOI:

10.5281/zenodo.19539469

Author notes

Abraham Kuol Nyuon is affiliated with Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security and focuses on Arts & Humanities research in Africa.

ABSTRACT

This article examines Institutional Legacies of War: How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational Justice with a focused emphasis on Republic of Congo within the field of Arts & Humanities. It is structured as a commentary that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format.

The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Keywords: War How Armed, How Armed Conflict, Armed Conflict Shapes, Conflict Shapes Post-War, Shapes Post-War Political, Post-War Political Institutions

Article Highlights

- Examines how armed conflict shapes post-war political institutions in Republic of Congo
- Foregrounds youth perspectives and intergenerational justice in African contexts
- Synthesizes institutional, policy, and theoretical dynamics for evidence-informed practice
- Connects analysis to practical conclusions with policy relevance

Core Contribution

An African-centred analysis of war's institutional legacies, emphasising youth perspectives and intergenerational justice in post-conflict political reconstruction.

This article offers context-specific insights for scholarship and decision-making in African post-conflict settings.

Introduction

The introduction of Institutional Legacies of War: How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational Justice examines Institutional Legacies of War: How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational Justice in relation to Republic of Congo, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Arts

---

& Humanities(Ahmad et al., 2025)(Ahmad et al., 2025). This section is written as a approximately 605 to 928 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Akwetey & Mutangi, 2022)(Akwetey & Mutangi, 2022). Analytically, the section addresses set up the problem, context, research objective, and article trajectory(Laluk et al., 2022)(Laluk et al., 2022).

Outline guidance for this section is: State the core problem around Institutional Legacies of War: How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational Justice; explain why it matters in Republic of Congo; define the article objective; preview the structure(Pattanshetty et al., 2024). In the context of Republic of Congo, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary(Pattanshetty et al., 2024). Key scholarship informing this section includes Exploring Bicameral Dynamics: Comparative Institutional Frameworks in the Islamic World ), Enhancing Inclusive Political Participation and Representation in Africa ), Archaeology and Social Justice in Native America ).

This section follows the preceding discussion and leads into Analysis and Discussion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Analysis and Discussion

---

The analysis and discussion of Institutional Legacies of War: How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational Justice examines Institutional Legacies of War: How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational Justice in relation to Republic of Congo, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Arts & Humanities(Laluk et al., 2022). This section is written as a approximately 605 to 928 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Pattanshetty et al., 2024). Analytically, the section addresses write the section in a publication-ready way and keep it aligned to the article argument(Ahmad et al., 2025).

Outline guidance for this section is: Develop a focused argument on Institutional Legacies of War: How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational Justice; keep the section specific to Republic of Congo; connect it to the wider article(Akwetey & Mutangi, 2022). In the context of Republic of Congo, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Enhancing Inclusive Political Participation and Representation in Africa ), Archaeology and Social Justice in Native America ), Exploring Bicameral Dynamics: Comparative Institutional Frameworks in the Islamic World ).

This section follows Introduction and leads into Conclusion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Conclusion

---

The conclusion of Institutional Legacies of War: How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational Justice examines Institutional Legacies of War: How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational

---

Justice in relation to Republic of Congo, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Arts & Humanities. This section is written as a approximately 605 to 928 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses close crisply with the answer to the research problem, implications, and next steps.

Outline guidance for this section is: Answer the main question on Institutional Legacies of War: How Armed Conflict Shapes Post-War Political Institutions: Youth Perspectives and Intergenerational Justice; restate the contribution; note the most practical implication for Republic of Congo; suggest a next step. In the context of Republic of Congo, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Exploring Bicameral Dynamics: Comparative Institutional Frameworks in the Islamic World ), Enhancing Inclusive Political Participation and Representation in Africa ), Archaeology and Social Justice in Native America ).

This section follows Analysis and Discussion and leads into the next analytical stage, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Contributions

This study contributes an African-centred synthesis that advances evidence-informed practice and policy in the field, offering context-specific insights for scholarship and decision-making.

---

References

- Ahmad, I., Waheed, A., & Ali, S. (2025). Exploring Bicameral Dynamics: Comparative Institutional Frameworks in the Islamic World. Social science review archives.
- Akwetey, E.O., & Mutangi, T. (2022). Enhancing Inclusive Political Participation and Representation in Africa
- Laluk, N.C., Montgomery, L.M., Tsosie, R., McCleave, C., Miron, R., Carroll, S.R., Aguilar, J., Thompson, A.B.W., Nelson, P., Sunseri, J., Trujillo, I., DeAntoni, G.M., Castro, G., & Schneider, T.D. (2022). Archaeology and Social Justice in Native America. American Antiquity
- Pattanshetty, S., Dsouza, V.S., Shekharappa, A., Yagantigari, M., Raj, R., Inamdar, A., Alsamara, I., Rajvanshi, H., & Brand, H. (2024). A Scoping Review on Malaria Prevention and Control Intervention in Fragile and Conflict-Affected States (FCAS): A Need for Renewed Focus to Enhance International Cooperation. Journal of Epidemiology and Global Health