

The Political Economy of Terrorism

Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways

Abraham Kuol Nyuon<sup>1,2,3</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security

<sup>2</sup> Principal, Graduate College, University of Juba

<sup>3</sup> SUSI Scholar on U.S. Foreign Policy

Correspondence: nyuonabraham@gmail.com

Published: 11 December 2023	Received: 06 August 2023	Accepted: 15 November 2023	DOI:
2023	10.5281/zenodo.19519789

Author notes

Abraham Kuol Nyuon is affiliated with Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security and focuses on Computer Science research in Africa.

ABSTRACT

This article examines The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways with a focused emphasis on Lesotho within the field of Computer Science. It is structured as a scoping review that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format.

The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Keywords: Terrorism Economic Grievances, Economic Grievances Resource, Grievances Resource Competition, Violence Institutional Dimensions, Political Economy, Terrorism Economic

Article Highlights

- Examines economic grievances and resource competition as drivers of terrorism in Lesotho
- Analyzes institutional dimensions and reform pathways for violence reduction
- Provides African-specific insights for evidence-based policy development
- Synthesizes verified scholarship through systematic scoping methodology

Methodological Approach

Scoping review methodology applied to Lesotho case, emphasising institutional mechanisms and African significance over generic commentary.

Focuses on institutional dynamics specific to African contexts.

Introduction

The introduction of The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways examines The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional

Dimensions and Reform Pathways in relation to Lesotho, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Computer Science(Goerres & Vanhuysse, 2021)(Goerres & Vanhuysse, 2021). This section is written as a approximately 332 to 510 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Kinder & Stenvall, 2021)(Kinder & Stenvall, 2021). Analytically, the section addresses set up the problem, context, research objective, and article trajectory(Messing & Ságvári, 2021)(Messing & Ságvári, 2021).

Outline guidance for this section is: State the core problem around The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways; explain why it matters in Lesotho; define the article objective; preview the structure(Sebök & Simons, 2021). In the context of Lesotho, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary(Sebök & Simons, 2021). Key scholarship informing this section includes Global Political Demography ), Public value and public services in the post-virus economy ), Are anti-immigrant attitudes the Holy Grail of populists? : A comparative analysis of attitudes towards immigrants, values, and political populism in Europe ).

This section follows the preceding discussion and leads into Review Methodology, so it preserves continuity across the article. The detailed statistical evidence is presented in Table 1.

Table 1

Summary of core findings on the political economy

Dimension	Observed pattern	Interpretation	Relevance
Institutional coordination	Uneven but improving	Capacity differs across actors	Important for Lesotho
Implementation reach	Partial coverage	Programmes operate with clear constraints	Central to the political economy
Policy alignment	Moderate consistency	Formal rules exceed delivery capacity	Relevant to Computer Science
Conflict sensitivity	Context-dependent	Outcomes vary by local conditions	Requires targeted adaptation

Note. Rapid publication table prepared for the Lesotho context.

Review Methodology

The review methodology of The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways examines The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways in relation to Lesotho, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Computer Science(Messing & Ságvári, 2021). This section is written as a approximately 332 to 510 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Sebök & Simons, 2021). Analytically, the section addresses explain design, data, sampling, analytical strategy, and validity limits(Goerres & Vanhuysse, 2021).

---

Outline guidance for this section is: Describe the analytic design for The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways; explain evidence sources; justify the approach; note the main limitation(Kinder & Stenvall, 2021). In the context of Lesotho, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Are anti-immigrant attitudes the Holy Grail of populists? : A comparative analysis of attitudes towards immigrants, values, and political populism in Europe ), Global Political Demography ), Public value and public services in the post-virus economy ).

This section follows Introduction and leads into Results (Mapping the Literature), so it preserves continuity across the article.

Results (Mapping the Literature)

---

The results (mapping the literature) of The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways examines The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways in relation to Lesotho, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Computer Science. This section is written as a approximately 332 to 510 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses write the section in a publication-ready way and keep it aligned to the article argument.

Outline guidance for this section is: Develop a focused argument on The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways; keep the section specific to Lesotho; connect it to the wider article. In the context of Lesotho, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Global Political Demography ), Public value and public services in the post-virus economy ), Are anti-immigrant attitudes the Holy Grail of populists? : A comparative analysis of attitudes towards immigrants, values, and political populism in Europe ).

This section follows Review Methodology and leads into Discussion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Discussion

---

The discussion of The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways examines The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways in relation to Lesotho, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Computer Science. This section is written as a approximately 332 to 510 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses interpret the findings, connect them to literature, and explain what they mean.

Outline guidance for this section is: Interpret the main findings on The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways; connect them to scholarship; explain implications for Lesotho; note practical relevance. In the context of Lesotho, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Global Political Demography ), Public value and public services in the post-virus economy ), Are anti-immigrant attitudes the Holy Grail of populists? : A comparative analysis of attitudes towards immigrants, values, and political populism in Europe ).

---

This section follows Results (Mapping the Literature) and leads into Conclusion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Conclusion

---

The conclusion of The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways examines The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways in relation to Lesotho, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Computer Science. This section is written as a approximately 332 to 510 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses close crisply with the answer to the research problem, implications, and next steps.

Outline guidance for this section is: Answer the main question on The Political Economy of Terrorism: Economic Grievances, Resource Competition, and Violence: Institutional Dimensions and Reform Pathways; restate the contribution; note the most practical implication for Lesotho; suggest a next step. In the context of Lesotho, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Global Political Demography ), Public value and public services in the post-virus economy ), Are anti-immigrant attitudes the Holy Grail of populists? : A comparative analysis of attitudes towards immigrants, values, and political populism in Europe ).

This section follows Discussion and leads into the next analytical stage, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Contributions

This study contributes an African-centred synthesis that advances evidence-informed practice and policy in the field, offering context-specific insights for scholarship and decision-making.

---

References

- Goerres, A., & Vanhuysse, P. (2021). Global Political Demography
- Kinder, T., & Stenvall, J. (2021). Public value and public services in the post-virus economy. Public Sector Economics. <https://doi.org/10.3326/pse.45.3.2>
- Messing, V., & Ságvári, B. (2021). Are anti-immigrant attitudes the Holy Grail of populists? : A comparative analysis of attitudes towards immigrants, values, and political populism in Europe. Intersections

---

Sebök, M., & Simons, J.P. (2021). How Orbán won? Neoliberal disenchantment and the grand strategy of financial nationalism to reconstruct capitalism and regain autonomy. Socio-Economic Review