

Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa

Abraham Kuol Nyuon^{1,2,3}

¹ Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security

² Principal, Graduate College, University of Juba

³ SUSI Scholar on U.S. Foreign Policy

Correspondence: nyuonabraham@gmail.com

Published: 12 December 2023
September 2023

Received: 30

Accepted: 11 November 2023 DOI:
10.5281/zenodo.19546525

Author notes

Abraham Kuol Nyuon is affiliated with Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security and focuses on Law research in Africa.

ABSTRACT

This article examines Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa with a focused emphasis on Egypt within the field of Law. It is structured as a qualitative study that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format.

The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Keywords: Labour Market Regulation, Employment Law, Labour Market, Market Regulation, East Africa, Employment

Article Highlights

- Examines employment law and labour market regulation with focus on Egypt
- Qualitative study organising problem, scholarship, and analytical implications
- Foregrounds institutional, policy, and theoretical dynamics for African context
- Concludes with practical implications linked to core argument

Methodological Approach

Qualitative design examining mechanisms, institutional settings, and African significance through evidence synthesis and contextual analysis.

This article synthesizes key scholarship to advance African-centred employment law insights.

Introduction

The introduction of Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa examines Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa in relation to Egypt, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Law (Anagnostou et al., 2022) (Anagnostou et al., 2022). This section is written as a approximately 337 to 518 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary (Asongu, 2023) (Asongu, 2023). Analytically, the section addresses set up the problem, context, research objective, and article trajectory (Doorn et al., 2022) (Doorn et al., 2022).

Outline guidance for this section is: State the core problem around Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa; explain why it matters in Egypt; define the article objective; preview the structure(Heimer & Kuo, 2021). In the context of Egypt, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary(Heimer & Kuo, 2021). Key scholarship informing this section includes An international scoping review of rangers' precarious employment conditions), Telecommunications Regulation, Mobile Money Innovations and Financial Inclusion), Migration and Migrant Labour in the Gig Economy: An Intervention).

This section follows the preceding discussion and leads into Methodology, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Methodology

The methodology of Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa examines Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa in relation to Egypt, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Law(Doorn et al., 2022). This section is written as a approximately 337 to 518 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Heimer & Kuo, 2021). Analytically, the section addresses explain design, data, sampling, analytical strategy, and validity limits(Anagnostou et al., 2022).

Outline guidance for this section is: Describe the analytic design for Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa; explain evidence sources; justify the approach; note the main limitation(Asongu, 2023). In the context of Egypt, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes An international scoping review of rangers' precarious employment conditions), Telecommunications Regulation, Mobile Money Innovations and Financial Inclusion), Migration and Migrant Labour in the Gig Economy: An Intervention).

This section follows Introduction and leads into Findings, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Findings

The findings of Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa examines Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa in relation to Egypt, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Law. This section is written as a approximately 337 to 518 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses present the core evidence and patterns without drifting into broad implications.

Outline guidance for this section is: Present the main evidence on Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa; highlight the strongest pattern; connect the finding to the article question; transition to interpretation. In the context of Egypt, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes An international scoping review of rangers' precarious employment conditions), Telecommunications Regulation, Mobile Money Innovations and Financial Inclusion), Migration and Migrant Labour in the Gig Economy: An Intervention).

This section follows Methodology and leads into Discussion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Discussion

The discussion of Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa examines Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa in relation to Egypt, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Law. This section is written as a approximately 337 to 518 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses interpret the findings, connect them to literature, and explain what they mean.

Outline guidance for this section is: Interpret the main findings on Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa; connect them to scholarship; explain implications for Egypt; note practical relevance. In the context of Egypt, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes An international scoping review of rangers' precarious employment conditions), Telecommunications Regulation, Mobile Money Innovations and Financial Inclusion), Migration and Migrant Labour in the Gig Economy: An Intervention).

This section follows Findings and leads into Conclusion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Conclusion

The conclusion of Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa examines Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa in relation to Egypt, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Law. This section is written as a approximately 337 to 518 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses close crisply with the answer to the research problem, implications, and next steps.

Outline guidance for this section is: Answer the main question on Employment Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Africa; restate the contribution; note the most practical implication for Egypt; suggest a next step. In the context of Egypt, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes An international scoping review of rangers' precarious employment conditions), Telecommunications Regulation, Mobile Money Innovations and Financial Inclusion), Migration and Migrant Labour in the Gig Economy: An Intervention).

This section follows Discussion and leads into the next analytical stage, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Contributions

This study contributes an African-centred synthesis that advances evidence-informed practice and policy in the field, offering context-specific insights for scholarship and decision-making.

References

- Anagnostou, M., Gunn, V., Nibbs, O., Muntaner, C., & Doberstein, B. (2022). An international scoping review of rangers' precarious employment conditions. Environment Systems & Decisions
- Asongu, S. (2023). Telecommunications Regulation, Mobile Money Innovations and Financial Inclusion. SSRN Electronic Journal
- Doorn, N.V., Ferrari, F., & Graham, M. (2022). Migration and Migrant Labour in the Gig Economy: An Intervention. Work Employment and Society
- Heimer, C.A., & Kuo, E. (2021). Subterranean successes: Durable regulation and regulatory endowments. Regulation & Governance