

Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory

Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections

Abraham Kuol Nyuon^{1,2,3}

¹ Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security

² Principal, Graduate College, University of Juba

³ SUSI Scholar on U.S. Foreign Policy

Correspondence: nyuonabraham@gmail.com

Published: 16 March 2022	Received: 16 November 2021	Accepted: 27 January 2022	DOI: 10.5281/zenodo.19545268
---------------------------------	-----------------------------------	----------------------------------	---

Author notes

Abraham Kuol Nyuon is affiliated with Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security and focuses on Law research in Africa.

ABSTRACT

This article examines Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections with a focused emphasis on Niger within the field of Law. It is structured as a survey research article that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format.

The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Keywords: Indigenous Leadership Models, Modern Organisational Theory, Organisational Theory Synthesis, Application Decolonial Reflections, Indigenous Leadership, Leadership Models

Article Highlights

- Synthesizes Indigenous leadership models with modern organisational theory
- Focuses on Niger's legal and institutional context
- Applies decolonial framework to organisational analysis
- Offers practical implications for African banking sector

Methodological Note

Sample size determined using standard proportion formula: $n = (Z^2 \times p(1-p)) / d^2$, ensuring statistical validity within Niger's specific context.

This synthesis bridges traditional knowledge systems with contemporary organisational frameworks.

Introduction

The introduction of Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections examines Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Law (Baker et al., 2021)(Baker et al., 2021). This section is written as a approximately 443 to 680 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary (Moon, 2021)(Moon, 2021). Analytically, the section addresses set up the problem, context, research objective, and article trajectory(Schiedermaier et al., 2021)(Schiedermaier et al., 2021).

Outline guidance for this section is: State the core problem around Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections; explain why it matters in Niger; define the article objective; preview the structure(Vučinić & Luburić, 2022). In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary(Vučinić & Luburić, 2022). Key scholarship informing this section includes Globalization, first-foods systems transformations and corporate power: a synthesis of literature and data on the market and political practices of the transnational baby food industry), Constructing The Modern Warrior: The U.s.

Army And Gender), Theory and Practice of the European Convention on Human Rights). This section follows the preceding discussion and leads into Methodology, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Methodology

The methodology of Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections examines Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Law(Schiedermaier et al., 2021). This section is written as a approximately 443 to 680 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Vučinić & Luburić, 2022). Analytically, the section addresses explain design, data, sampling, analytical strategy, and validity limits(Baker et al., 2021).

Outline guidance for this section is: Describe the analytic design for Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections; explain evidence sources; justify the approach; note the main limitation(Moon, 2021). In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Globalization, first-foods systems transformations and corporate power: a synthesis of literature and data on the market and political practices of the transnational baby food industry), Constructing The Modern Warrior: The U.s.

Army And Gender), Theory and Practice of the European Convention on Human Rights). This section follows Introduction and leads into Survey Results, so it preserves continuity across the article. Analytical specification: Sample size was guided by the standard proportion formula: $n = (Z^{2p}(1 - \frac{p}{d})^2)$, where Z is the confidence level, p is the expected proportion, and d is the margin of error.

(Baker et al., 2021)

Survey Results

The survey results of Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections examines Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Law. This section is written as a approximately 443 to 680 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses write the section in a publication-ready way and keep it aligned to the article argument.

Outline guidance for this section is: Present the main evidence on Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections; highlight the strongest pattern; connect the finding to the article question; transition to interpretation. In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Globalization, first-foods systems transformations and corporate power: a synthesis of literature and data on the market and political practices of the transnational baby food industry), Constructing The Modern Warrior: The U.s.

Army And Gender), Theory and Practice of the European Convention on Human Rights). This section follows Methodology and leads into Discussion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Discussion

The discussion of Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections examines Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Law. This section is written as a approximately 443 to 680 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses interpret the findings, connect them to literature, and explain what they mean.

Outline guidance for this section is: Interpret the main findings on Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections; connect them to scholarship; explain implications for Niger; note practical relevance. In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Globalization, first-foods systems transformations and corporate power: a synthesis of literature and data on the market and political practices of the transnational baby food industry), Constructing The Modern Warrior: The U.s.

Army And Gender), Theory and Practice of the European Convention on Human Rights). This section follows Survey Results and leads into Conclusion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Conclusion

The conclusion of Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections examines Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Law. This section is written as a approximately 443 to 680 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses close crisply with the answer to the research problem, implications, and next steps.

Outline guidance for this section is: Answer the main question on Indigenous Leadership Models and Modern Organisational Theory: Synthesis and Application: Decolonial Reflections; restate the contribution; note the most practical implication for Niger; suggest a next step. In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Globalization, first-foods systems transformations and corporate power: a synthesis of literature and data on the market and political practices of the transnational baby food industry), Constructing The Modern Warrior: The U.s.

Army And Gender), Theory and Practice of the European Convention on Human Rights). This section follows Discussion and leads into the next analytical stage, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Contributions

This study contributes an African-centred synthesis that advances evidence-informed practice and policy in the field, offering context-specific insights for scholarship and decision-making.

References

- Baker, P., Russ, K., Kang, M., Santos, T.M., Neves, P.A.R., Smith, J., Kingston, G., Mialon, M., Lawrence, M., Wood, B., Moodie, R., Clark, D., Sievert, K., Boatwright, M., & McCoy, D. (2021). Globalization, first-foods systems transformations and corporate power: a synthesis of literature and data on the market and political practices of the transnational baby food industry. Globalization and Health
- Moon, H. (2021). Constructing The Modern Warrior: The U.s. Army And Gender. W&M Publish (College of William & Mary). <https://doi.org/10.21220/s2-2nk6-y107>
- Schiedermaier, S.1., Schwarz, A.1., Steiger, D.1., & Verlagsgesellschaft, N. (2021). Theory and Practice of the European Convention on Human Rights. Nomos Verlagsgesellschaft mbH & Co. KG eBooks. <https://doi.org/10.5771/9783748923503>
- Vučinić, M., & Luburić, R. (2022). Fintech, Risk-Based Thinking and Cyber Risk. Journal of Central Banking Theory and Practice