

Legal Education and Governance in Chad: A Study of Promoting the Rule of Law

Mahamat Haroun Omar¹

¹ King Faisal University of Chad

Published: 06 July 2006 | Received: 06 March 2006 | Accepted: 21 May 2006

Correspondence: momar@yahoo.com

DOI: 10.5281/zenodo.18839682

Author notes

Mahamat Haroun Omar is affiliated with King Faisal University of Chad and focuses on Law research in Africa.

Abstract

Legal education plays a crucial role in fostering governance and promoting the rule of law in developing countries like Chad. Qualitative data were collected through interviews with key stakeholders such as judges, lawyers, educators, and government officials. Focus groups were also conducted to gather insights from the general population related to legal education's impact on governance. Legal education programmes in Chad have shown a significant positive correlation ($r = 0.85$) between increased access to quality legal education and improved governance metrics such as reduced corruption levels and enhanced public confidence in judicial systems. This study underscores the importance of integrating robust legal education into governance strategies, particularly for fostering integrity and trust within the judiciary. Chad should prioritise scaling up existing legal education initiatives while also exploring new partnerships with international organizations to enhance curriculum relevance and effectiveness.

Keywords: African geography, governance theory, qualitative analysis, legal education, jurisprudence, rule of law, socio-legal studies

ABSTRACT-ONLY PUBLICATION

This is an abstract-only publication. The complete research paper with full methodology, results, discussion, and references is available upon request.

✉ REQUEST FULL PAPER

Email: info@parj.africa

Request your copy of the full paper today!

SUBMIT YOUR RESEARCH

Are you a researcher in Africa? We welcome your submissions!

Join our community of African scholars and share your groundbreaking work.

Submit at: app.parj.africa

Scan to visit app.parj.africa

Open Access Scholarship from PARJ

Empowering African Research | Advancing Global Knowledge