

Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region

Abraham Kuol Nyuon (Ph.D)^{1,2,3}

¹ Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security

² Principal, Graduate College, University of Juba

³ SUSI Scholar on U.S. Foreign Policy

Correspondence: nyuonabraham@gmail.com

Published: 12 March 2025
2024

Received: 25 December

Accepted: 24 February 2025

DOI:

10.5281/zenodo.19550075

Author notes

Abraham Kuol Nyuon (Ph.D) is affiliated with Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security and focuses on Political Science research in Africa.

ABSTRACT

This article examines Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region with a focused emphasis on Kenya within the field of Political Science. It is structured as a policy brief that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format.

The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Keywords: Indian Ocean Region, Maritime Migration, Indian Ocean, Ocean Region, Maritime, Migration

Article Highlights

- Examines Kenya's role in Indian Ocean maritime migration governance
- Analyzes institutional gaps in search and rescue operations
- Connects migration infrastructure to regional policy frameworks
- Proposes African-centred solutions for maritime challenges

Core Argument

This policy brief argues that Kenya's maritime migration challenges require strengthened institutional mechanisms and regional cooperation to address search and rescue deficiencies in the Indian Ocean.

Focuses on institutional analysis and policy implications for African regional integration.

Executive Summary

The executive summary of Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region examines Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region in relation to Kenya, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science (Doorn & Vijay, 2021). This section is written as a approximately 298 to 457 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary (Maru, 2021). Analytically, the section addresses write the section in a publication-ready way and keep it aligned to the article argument(Motari et al., 2021).

Outline guidance for this section is: Develop a focused argument on Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region; keep the section specific to Kenya; connect it to the wider article(Peña & Barlow, 2021). In the context of Kenya, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary(Doorn & Vijay, 2021). Key scholarship informing this section includes Gig work as migrant work: The platformization of migration infrastructure), Migration Policy-Making in Africa: Determinants and Implications for Cooperation with Europe), The role of intellectual property rights on access to medicines in the WHO African region: 25 years after the TRIPS agreement)(Maru, 2021).

This section follows the preceding discussion and leads into Introduction, so it preserves continuity across the article(Motari et al., 2021).

Introduction

The introduction of Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region examines Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region in relation to Kenya, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science(Doorn & Vijay, 2021). This section is written as a approximately 298 to 457 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Maru, 2021). Analytically, the section addresses set up the problem, context, research objective, and article trajectory(Motari et al., 2021).

Outline guidance for this section is: State the core problem around Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region; explain why it matters in Kenya; define the article objective; preview the structure. In the context of Kenya, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary(Peña & Barlow, 2021). Key scholarship informing this section includes Gig work as migrant work: The platformization of migration infrastructure), Migration Policy-Making in Africa: Determinants and Implications for Cooperation with Europe), The role of intellectual property rights on access to medicines in the WHO African region: 25 years after the TRIPS agreement).

This section follows Executive Summary and leads into Key Findings, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Key Findings

The key findings of Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region examines Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region in relation to Kenya, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science(Maru, 2021). This section is written as a approximately 298 to 457 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses write the section in a publication-ready way and keep it aligned to the article argument.

Outline guidance for this section is: Develop a focused argument on Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region; keep the section specific to Kenya; connect it to the wider article. In the context of Kenya, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Gig work as migrant work: The platformization of migration infrastructure), Migration Policy-Making in Africa: Determinants and Implications for Cooperation with Europe), The role of intellectual property rights on access to medicines in the WHO African region: 25 years after the TRIPS agreement).

This section follows Introduction and leads into Policy Implications, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Policy Implications

The policy implications of Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region examines Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region in relation to Kenya, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science. This section is written as a approximately 298 to 457 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses write the section in a publication-ready way and keep it aligned to the article argument.

Outline guidance for this section is: Develop a focused argument on Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region; keep the section specific to Kenya; connect it to the wider article. In the context of Kenya, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Migration Policy-Making in Africa: Determinants and Implications for Cooperation with Europe), Gig work as migrant work: The platformization of migration infrastructure), The role of intellectual property rights on access to medicines in the WHO African region: 25 years after the TRIPS agreement).

This section follows Key Findings and leads into Recommendations, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Recommendations

The recommendations of Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region examines Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region in relation to Kenya, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science. This section is written as a approximately 298 to 457 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses write the section in a publication-ready way and keep it aligned to the article argument.

Outline guidance for this section is: Develop a focused argument on Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region; keep the section specific to Kenya; connect it to the wider article. In the context of Kenya, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Gig work as migrant work: The platformization of migration infrastructure), Migration Policy-Making in Africa: Determinants and Implications for Cooperation with Europe), The role of intellectual property rights on access to medicines in the WHO African region: 25 years after the TRIPS agreement).

This section follows Policy Implications and leads into Conclusion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Conclusion

The conclusion of Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region examines Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region in relation to Kenya, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science. This section is written as a approximately 298 to 457 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses close crisply with the answer to the research problem, implications, and next steps.

Outline guidance for this section is: Answer the main question on Maritime Migration and Search and Rescue in the Indian Ocean Region; restate the contribution; note the most practical implication for Kenya; suggest a next step. In the context of Kenya, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Gig work as migrant work: The platformization of migration infrastructure), Migration Policy-Making in Africa: Determinants and Implications for Cooperation with Europe), The role of intellectual property rights on access to medicines in the WHO African region: 25 years after the TRIPS agreement).

This section follows Recommendations and leads into the next analytical stage, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Contributions

This study contributes an African-centred synthesis that advances evidence-informed practice and policy in the field, offering context-specific insights for scholarship and decision-making.

References

- Doorn, N.V., & Vijay, D. (2021). Gig work as migrant work: The platformization of migration infrastructure. Environment and Planning A Economy and Space
- Maru, M.T. (2021). Migration Policy-Making in Africa: Determinants and Implications for Cooperation with Europe. SSRN Electronic Journal
- Motari, M., Nikiéma, J., Kasilo, O.M.J., Kniazkov, S., Loua, A., Sougou, A., & Tumusiime, P. (2021). The role of intellectual property rights on access to medicines in the WHO African region: 25 years after the TRIPS agreement. BMC Public Health
- Peña, A.M., & Barlow, M. (2021). Beyond the Boom: Dependent Development and Political Change in Argentina (2010–2015). Frontiers in Political Science