ABSTRACT

This article examines Terrorism and Counter-Terrorism in East Africa: Legal Frameworks and Civil Liberties: Multi-Level Governance Perspectives with a focused emphasis on Morocco within the field of Arts & Humanities. It is structured as a mixed methods study that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format.

The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Keywords: East Africa Legal, Africa Legal Frameworks, Civil Liberties Multi-Level, Liberties Multi-Level Governance, Multi-Level Governance Perspectives, East Africa

Article Highlights

- Examines legal frameworks and civil liberties in East African counter-terrorism
- Applies multi-level governance perspectives to regional security challenges
- Foregrounds institutional dynamics and African significance of the problem
- Uses mixed methods to analyse quantitative associations and qualitative insights

Methodological Approach

Mixed methods study employing quantitative modelling ( $Y = \beta_0 + \beta_1X_1 + \beta_2X_2 + \epsilon$ ) alongside qualitative analysis of institutional mechanisms and policy frameworks.

This article synthesizes African-centred perspectives on security governance and rights protection.

Introduction

The introduction of Terrorism and Counter-Terrorism in East Africa: Legal Frameworks and Civil Liberties: Multi-Level Governance Perspectives examines Terrorism and Counter-Terrorism in East Africa: Legal Frameworks and Civil Liberties: Multi-Level Governance Perspectives in relation to Morocco, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Arts & Humanities(Davis & Ramirez-Andreotta, 2021)(Davis & Ramirez-Andreotta, 2021).
