

Cyber resilience policy coordination in Ugandan public institutions

PARJ Async Test Author

Independent Researcher

African Foreign Policy Analysis (Political Science focus) | Vol. 1, Iss. 1 (2026)

DOI: 10.5281/zenodo.19590857

Abstract

This article examines Cyber resilience policy coordination in Ugandan public institutions with a focused emphasis on Uganda within the field of Political Science. It is structured as a original research article that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format. The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Cyber resilience policy coordination in Ugandan public institutions

African Foreign Policy Analysis (Political Science focus)

<https://doi.org/10.5281/zenodo.19590857>

12 April 2026

PARJ Async Test Author (Independent Researcher)

Keywords

Cyber resilience policy, resilience policy coordination, Ugandan public institutions, Cyber resilience, resilience policy, policy coordination

Abstract

This article examines Cyber resilience policy coordination in Ugandan public institutions with a focused emphasis on Uganda within the field of Political Science. It is structured as a original research article that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format. The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

This article examines Cyber resilience policy coordination in Ugandan public institutions with a focused emphasis on Uganda within the field of Political Science. It is structured as a original research article that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format. The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.