ABSTRACT

This article examines Local Conflict Resolution Mechanisms and the Formal Justice System: Complementarity and Gaps: Towards a Research Agenda with a focused emphasis on Mauritius within the field of Political Science. It is structured as a original research article that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format.

The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Keywords: Local Conflict Resolution, Conflict Resolution Mechanisms, Formal Justice System, Justice System Complementarity, Local Conflict, Conflict Resolution

Article Highlights

- Examines complementarity between local and formal justice systems in Mauritius
- Identifies critical gaps in institutional coordination and policy frameworks
- Proposes a research agenda grounded in African political science contexts
- Foregrounds mechanisms and institutional settings specific to Mauritius

Core Contribution

Advances an African-centred analytical framework for understanding how local conflict resolution mechanisms interact with formal justice systems, with specific application to Mauritius.

This article synthesises key debates to establish a forward-looking research agenda.
