ABSTRACT

This article examines Local Integration as a Durable Solution: Political Feasibility and Community Acceptance: Implications for Regional Integration with a focused emphasis on Zimbabwe within the field of Political Science. It is structured as a policy analysis article that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format.

The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Keywords: Durable Solution Political, Solution Political Feasibility, Community Acceptance Implications, Local Integration, Durable Solution, Solution Political

Article Highlights

- Examines local integration as a durable solution within Zimbabwe's political context
- Analyzes institutional mechanisms shaping community acceptance and feasibility
- Connects local dynamics to broader regional integration implications
- Provides African-centred synthesis for evidence-informed policy

Zimbabwe Case Context

This analysis foregrounds Zimbabwe's institutional setting and political economy dimensions to examine local integration mechanisms with African-specific significance.

This article synthesizes political science scholarship with policy analysis for African contexts.
