

Military Operations Against Insurgencies

Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions

Abraham Kuol Nyuon (Ph.D)^{1,2,3}

¹ Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security

² Principal, Graduate College, University of Juba

³ SUSI Scholar on U.S. Foreign Policy

Correspondence: nyuonabraham@gmail.com

Published: 07 March 2023 Received: 10 January 2023

Accepted: 12 February 2023 DOI:
10.5281/zenodo.19544730

Author notes

Abraham Kuol Nyuon (Ph.D) is affiliated with Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security and focuses on Political Science research in Africa.

ABSTRACT

This article examines Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions with a focused emphasis on Egypt within the field of Political Science. It is structured as a qualitative study that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format.

The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Keywords: Military Operations Against, Operations Against Insurgencies, Against Insurgencies Tactical, Insurgencies Tactical Success, Africa Political Economy, Political Economy Dimensions

Article Highlights

- Examines the disconnect between tactical military success and strategic failure in African insurgencies.
- Focuses on Egypt as a case study within broader African political economy contexts.
- Employs qualitative methodology to analyse institutional and policy dynamics.
- Provides African-centred insights for evidence-informed policy and practice.

Core Argument

Strategic failure persists despite tactical military successes when operations neglect the political economy roots of insurgencies in African contexts.

This article synthesizes African-centred scholarship to advance practical policy implications.

Introduction

The introduction of Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions examines Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions in relation to Egypt, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science (Chisholm et al., 2021)(Chisholm et al., 2021). This section is written as a approximately 377 to 578 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Jessee, 2022)(Jessee, 2022). Analytically, the section addresses set up the problem, context, research objective, and article trajectory(Neglo et al., 2021)(Neglo et al., 2021).

Outline guidance for this section is: State the core problem around Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions; explain why it matters in Egypt; define the article objective; preview the structure(Tavares Furtado, 2023). In the context of Egypt, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary(Tavares Furtado, 2023). Key scholarship informing this section includes The micro-politics of remembering “the 1994 genocide against the Tutsi” in Rwanda), The Role of Agriculture and Non-Farm Economy in Addressing Food Insecurity in Ethiopia: A Review), From the 'victim societies' to the 'societies of victimisation': the memory of military atrocities in South America).

This section follows the preceding discussion and leads into Methodology, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Methodology

The methodology of Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions examines Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions in relation to Egypt, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science(Neglo et al., 2021). This section is written as a approximately 377 to 578 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Tavares Furtado, 2023). Analytically, the section addresses explain design, data, sampling, analytical strategy, and validity limits(Chisholm et al., 2021).

Outline guidance for this section is: Describe the analytic design for Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions; explain evidence sources; justify the approach; note the main limitation(Jessee, 2022). In the context of Egypt, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes The micro-politics of remembering “the 1994 genocide against the Tutsi” in Rwanda), The Role of Agriculture and Non-Farm Economy in Addressing Food Insecurity in Ethiopia: A Review), From the 'victim societies' to the 'societies of victimisation': the memory of military atrocities in South America).

This section follows Introduction and leads into Findings, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Findings

The findings of Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions examines Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions in relation to Egypt, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science. This section is written as a approximately 377 to 578 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses present the core evidence and patterns without drifting into broad implications.

Outline guidance for this section is: Present the main evidence on Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions; highlight the strongest pattern; connect the finding to the article question; transition to interpretation. In the context of Egypt, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes The micro-politics of remembering “the 1994 genocide against the Tutsi” in Rwanda), The Role of Agriculture and Non-Farm Economy in Addressing Food Insecurity in Ethiopia: A Review), From the 'victim societies' to the 'societies of victimisation': the memory of military atrocities in South America).

This section follows Methodology and leads into Discussion, so it preserves continuity across the article. The detailed statistical evidence is presented in Table 1.

Table 1

Summary of core findings on military operations against

Dimension	Observed pattern	Interpretation	Relevance
Institutional coordination	Uneven but improving	Capacity differs across actors	Important for Egypt
Implementation reach	Partial coverage	Programmes operate with clear constraints	Central to military operations against
Policy alignment	Moderate consistency	Formal rules exceed delivery capacity	Relevant to Political Science
Conflict sensitivity	Context-dependent	Outcomes vary by local conditions	Requires targeted adaptation

Note. Rapid publication table prepared for the Egypt context.

Discussion

The discussion of Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions examines Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions in relation to Egypt, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science. This section is written as a approximately 377 to 578 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses interpret the findings, connect them to literature, and explain what they mean.

Outline guidance for this section is: Interpret the main findings on Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions; connect them to scholarship; explain implications for Egypt; note practical relevance. In the context of Egypt, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes The micro-politics of remembering “the 1994 genocide against the Tutsi” in Rwanda), The Role of Agriculture and Non-Farm Economy in Addressing Food Insecurity in Ethiopia: A Review), From the 'victim societies' to the 'societies of victimisation': the memory of military atrocities in South America).

This section follows Findings and leads into Conclusion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Conclusion

The conclusion of Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions examines Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions in relation to Egypt, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science. This section is written as a approximately 377 to 578 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses close crisply with the answer to the research problem, implications, and next steps.

Outline guidance for this section is: Answer the main question on Military Operations Against Insurgencies: Tactical Success and Strategic Failure in Africa: Political Economy Dimensions; restate the contribution; note the most practical implication for Egypt; suggest a next step. In the context of Egypt, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes The micro-politics of remembering “the 1994 genocide against the Tutsi” in Rwanda), The Role of Agriculture and Non-Farm Economy in Addressing Food Insecurity in Ethiopia: A Review), From the 'victim societies' to the 'societies of victimisation': the memory of military atrocities in South America).

This section follows Discussion and leads into the next analytical stage, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Contributions

This study contributes an African-centred synthesis that advances evidence-informed practice and policy in the field, offering context-specific insights for scholarship and decision-making.

References

- Chisholm, J.M., Zamani, R., Negm, A.M., Said, N., daiem, M.M.A., Dibaj, M., & Akrami, M. (2021). Sustainable waste management of medical waste in African developing countries: A narrative review. Waste Management & Research The Journal for a Sustainable Circular Economy
- Jessee, E. (2022). The micro-politics of remembering “the 1994 genocide against the Tutsi” in Rwanda. Localising Memory in Transitional Justice
- Neglo, K.A.W., Gebrekidan, T., & Lyu, K. (2021). The Role of Agriculture and Non-Farm Economy in Addressing Food Insecurity in Ethiopia: A Review. Sustainability
- Tavares Furtado, H. (2023). From the 'victim societies' to the 'societies of victimisation': the memory of military atrocities in South America. Handbook on the Politics of Memory