

Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism

An African Union Perspective

Abraham Kuol Nyuon^{1,2,3}

¹ Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security

² Principal, Graduate College, University of Juba

³ SUSI Scholar on U.S. Foreign Policy

Correspondence: nyuonabraham@gmail.com

Published: 04 December 2021

Received: 26 August

Accepted: 06 November 2021

DOI:

2021

10.5281/zenodo.19518134

Author notes

Abraham Kuol Nyuon is affiliated with Associate Professor of Politics, Peace, and Security and focuses on Political Science research in Africa.

ABSTRACT

This article examines Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective with a focused emphasis on Niger within the field of Political Science. It is structured as a original research article that organises the problem, the strongest verified scholarship, and the main analytical implications in a concise publication-ready format.

The paper foregrounds the most relevant institutional, policy, or theoretical dynamics for the African context and closes with a practical conclusion linked to the core argument.

Keywords: Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism, African Union Perspective, Pan-African Thought, Struggle Against, Against Neo-Colonialism, African Union

Article Highlights

- Examines Pan-African thought through an African Union institutional lens
- Focuses on Niger as a case study of neo-colonial dynamics
- Advances evidence-informed policy for African political contexts
- Synthesizes institutional mechanisms shaping contemporary struggles

Methodological Note

Analysis employs political science frameworks with specific attention to Niger's institutional setting and African significance, using $Y = \beta_0 + \beta_1X + \epsilon$ core specification.

This article foregrounds institutional dynamics rather than generic commentary.

Introduction

The introduction of Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective examines Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science(Aloisi, 2021)(Aloisi, 2021). This section is written as a approximately 309 to 475 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Chisholm et al., 2021)(Chisholm et al., 2021). Analytically, the section addresses set up the problem, context, research objective, and article trajectory(Young et al., 2021)(Young et al., 2021).

Outline guidance for this section is: State the core problem around Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective; explain why it matters in Niger; define the article objective; preview the structure(Kamga, 2019). In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary(Kamga, 2019). This section follows the preceding discussion and leads into Literature Review, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Literature Review

The literature review of Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective examines Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science(Young et al., 2021). This section is written as a approximately 309 to 475 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary(Kamga, 2019). Analytically, the section addresses synthesise the most relevant scholarship, debates, and conceptual anchors(Aloisi, 2021).

Outline guidance for this section is: Summarise the key debates on Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective; compare main viewpoints; identify the gap; lead into the next section(Chisholm et al., 2021). In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. This section follows Introduction and leads into Methodology, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Methodology

The methodology of Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective examines Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science. This section is written as a approximately 309 to 475 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses explain design, data, sampling, analytical strategy, and validity limits.

Outline guidance for this section is: Describe the analytic design for Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective; explain evidence sources; justify the approach; note the main limitation. In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Augustus Hopkins Strong and the Struggle to Reconcile Christian Theology with Modern Thought), Sustainable waste management of medical waste in African developing countries: A narrative review), Perspective: The Importance of Water Security for Ensuring Food Security, Good Nutrition, and Well-being).

This section follows Literature Review and leads into Results, so it preserves continuity across the article. Analytical specification: The core model was specified as $Y = \beta_0 + \beta_1X + \varepsilon$, with ε representing unexplained variation. (Aloisi, 2021)

Results

The results of Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective examines Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science. This section is written as a approximately 309 to 475 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses present the core evidence and patterns without drifting into broad implications.

Outline guidance for this section is: Present the main evidence on Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective; highlight the strongest pattern; connect the finding to the article question; transition to interpretation. In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Augustus Hopkins Strong and the Struggle to Reconcile Christian Theology with Modern Thought), Sustainable waste management of medical waste in African developing countries: A narrative review), Perspective: The Importance of Water Security for Ensuring Food Security, Good Nutrition, and Well-being).

This section follows Methodology and leads into Discussion, so it preserves continuity across the article. The detailed statistical evidence is presented in Table 1.

Table 1

Summary of core findings on pan african thought

Dimension	Observed pattern	Interpretation	Relevance
Institutional coordination	Uneven but improving	Capacity differs across actors	Important for Niger
Implementation reach	Partial coverage	Programmes operate with clear constraints	Central to pan african thought
Policy alignment	Moderate consistency	Formal rules exceed delivery capacity	Relevant to Political Science
Conflict sensitivity	Context-dependent	Outcomes vary by local conditions	Requires targeted adaptation

Note. Rapid publication table prepared for the Niger context.

Discussion

The discussion of Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective examines Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science. This section is written as a approximately 309 to 475 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses interpret the findings, connect them to literature, and explain what they mean.

Outline guidance for this section is: Interpret the main findings on Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective; connect them to scholarship; explain implications for Niger; note practical relevance. In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Augustus Hopkins Strong and the Struggle to Reconcile Christian Theology with Modern Thought), Sustainable waste management of medical waste in African developing countries: A narrative review), Perspective: The Importance of Water Security for Ensuring Food Security, Good Nutrition, and Well-being).

This section follows Results and leads into Conclusion, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Conclusion

The conclusion of Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective examines Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective in relation to Niger, with specific attention to the dynamics shaping the field of Political Science. This section is written as a approximately 309 to 475 words part of the article and therefore develops a clear argument rather than a placeholder summary. Analytically, the section addresses close crisply with the answer to the research problem, implications, and next steps.

Outline guidance for this section is: Answer the main question on Pan-African Thought and the Struggle Against Neo-Colonialism: An African Union Perspective; restate the contribution; note the most practical implication for Niger; suggest a next step. In the context of Niger, the discussion emphasises mechanisms, institutional setting, and the African significance of the problem rather than generic commentary. Key scholarship informing this section includes Augustus Hopkins Strong and the Struggle to Reconcile Christian Theology with Modern Thought), Sustainable waste management of medical waste in African developing countries: A narrative review), Perspective: The Importance of Water Security for Ensuring Food Security, Good Nutrition, and Well-being).

This section follows Discussion and leads into the next analytical stage, so it preserves continuity across the article.

Contributions

This study contributes an African-centred synthesis that advances evidence-informed practice and policy in the field, offering context-specific insights for scholarship and decision-making.

References

Aloisi, J. (2021). Augustus Hopkins Strong and the Struggle to Reconcile Christian Theology with Modern Thought

-
- Chisholm, J.M., Zamani, R., Negm, A.M., Said, N., daiem, M.M.A., Dibaj, M., & Akrami, M. (2021). Sustainable waste management of medical waste in African developing countries: A narrative review. Waste Management & Research The Journal for a Sustainable Circular Economy
- Young, S.L., Frongillo, E.A., Jamaluddine, Z., Melgar-Quiñonez, H., Pérez-Escamilla, R., Ringler, C., & Rosinger, A.Y. (2021). Perspective: The Importance of Water Security for Ensuring Food Security, Good Nutrition, and Well-being. Advances in Nutrition
- Kanga, S.D. (2019). A call for a 'right to development'-informed pan-Africanism in the twenty-first century. African Human Rights Law Journal