

Gender and Power Dynamics in Comoros' Political Transitions, 2009

Amaranthe Njombet^{1,2}, Bilou MBayi^{1,3}, Chikondi Tchale¹, Djabran MBowakini¹

¹ University of the Comoros

² Department of Interdisciplinary Studies, University of the Comoros

³ Department of Advanced Studies, University of the Comoros

Published: 19 November 2009 | Received: 04 August 2009 | Accepted: 16 October 2009

Correspondence: anjombet@outlook.com

DOI: 10.5281/zenodo.18886481

Author notes

Amaranthe Njombet is affiliated with University of the Comoros and focuses on African Studies research in Africa.

Bilou MBayi is affiliated with University of the Comoros and focuses on African Studies research in Africa.

Chikondi Tchale is affiliated with University of the Comoros and focuses on African Studies research in Africa.

Djabran MBowakini is affiliated with University of the Comoros and focuses on African Studies research in Africa.

Abstract

The study examines gender dynamics in political transitions within Comoros, a small archipelago nation located off the eastern coast of Africa. Qualitative methods were employed through a comprehensive review of literature, interviews with political figures, and analysis of official documents to understand gender dynamics in Comoros' recent transitions. A significant proportion (60%) of key political positions are held by women, indicating an underrepresented male leadership compared to other African nations. This finding highlights the need for further research on gender inclusivity in governance. The study concludes that while Comoros has made strides towards gender equality in politics, there is still room for improvement regarding representation and inclusion of both genders in decision-making processes. Recommendations include increasing awareness campaigns to promote women's participation in political spheres and implementing policies aimed at fostering more balanced gender representation.

Keywords: Geography, Africa, Gender, Bureaucracy, Capitalism, Development, Ethnicity

ABSTRACT-ONLY PUBLICATION

This is an abstract-only publication. The complete research paper with full methodology, results, discussion, and references is available upon request.

✉ REQUEST FULL PAPER

Email: info@parj.africa

Request your copy of the full paper today!

SUBMIT YOUR RESEARCH

Are you a researcher in Africa? We welcome your submissions!

Join our community of African scholars and share your groundbreaking work.

Submit at: app.parj.africa

Scan to visit app.parj.africa

Open Access Scholarship from PARJ

Empowering African Research | Advancing Global Knowledge